Officials Pave the Way for Corridor H Funding

Gov. Justice Approves Award of Corridor H Project

Gov. Jim Justice and leaders from the West Virginia Department of Transportation today announced that the contract for additional work upgrading Corridor H, through the governor's Roads to Prosperity program, has been awarded to Kokosing Construction Company.

A low bid of $175.6 million has been awarded for this project, which marks the second out of five phases of work that will be done to enhance Corridor H from Kerens to Parsons in eastern West Virginia. The scope of work for this project includes designing, grading, and draining approximately 4.13 miles, which will eventually become new, partially controlled access roadway from the US Route 219 Connector to the WV Route 72 Interchange in Tucker County.

This project also includes the construction of three large sets of bridges crossing Goodwin Road, Smokey Hollow and WV Route 72.

Additionally, the scope of work includes the building of a pedestrian bridge to accommodate Shingle Tree Trail within Monongahela State Forest.

Kokosing Construction Company also completed the first phase of the Corridor H enhancement work, which graded and drained another 7.5 miles between Kerens and Parsons with a connector to US Route 219.

Once the second phase of work is complete the remaining phases of the Corridor H enhancement project will include paving from Kerens to the WV Route 72 Interchange, completion of the WV Route 72 Interchange to Parsons, and completion of the Cheat River Bridge.

The Robert C. Byrd Corridor H Highway Authority applauds the announcement by Governor Jim Justice that another 4.13 miles of Corridor H construction has been awarded.

We would like to thank Governor Jim Justice, Secretary of Transportation Byrd White, and Commissioner of Highways Jimmy Wriston for continuing to make the completion of

Celebrate the Family at Brighton Park

By Jean A. Flanagan
Moorefield Examiner

It's a day when families can relax, enjoy their children, and not have to worry about cost, said Joanna Kuhn, executive director of the Eastern Regional Family Resource Network, talking about the Celebrate The Family event scheduled for Saturday, June 8.

It's always the second Saturday in June, so people can plan ahead to be there.

A collaboration between the Hardy County and Grant County Family Issues Task Force, Celebrate The Family gets underway at 10 a.m. at Brighton Park. The day is just what it says - an opportunity to celebrate the family, with games, food, door prizes and lots of information.

"Even the door prizes are geared to families being together and doing things together," Kuhn said. "There may be something like a movie and a meal, which allows families eat out together."

This year the Colgate Bus will be on hand to provide free dental screenings, which will satisfy the Hardy County Schools requirement for a dental checkup.

The event has a multitude of partners and sponsors, all of whom donate goods or services to the day.

The primary funding comes from a grant from the Hardy County Community Foundation. State funding through Partners In Prevention helps as well. We have generous donors who support us every year," Kuhn said.

American Woodmark Dream Team Builds Playground for Baker Child

By Jackie Barnett
Special to Examiner

On Saturday May 18, the Make-A-Wish Dream Team from American Woodmark went to Isaac Ludwig's house in Baker. Isaac's wish was to have a playground. Well, the team went a little beyond that.

Jeff Bauserman from Grilling Times came and catered the event for free. He supplied everyone with hot dogs with chili and cheese, French fries, and drinks. He also had funnel cakes and deep fried Oreos for the afternoon snack. Jeff not only went beyond with the food, but Isaac is allergic to gluten so Jeff bought a funnel cake mix that was gluten free just for Isaac.

A&S from Petersburg was so gracious to help support us as well. They were so kind to donate a porta-potty for the event so there would not be any traffic in the home for there were many people at the event.

Spiderman came to visit and brought Isaac a Spiderman action figure. Also, Eric Vidischak and John Mongold, owners of Jak's RC presented Isaac a remote control car along with a card that gives him free parts/repairs to the car. It was truly an amazing day!

It is one thing to financially support a child and grant their wish. But to actually be there to grant and perform the wish as the dream team did, building the playground while spending time with the family, was just as meaningful to us as it was to the family.

Right: Isaac takes his first slide on his new sliding board.

Volunteers for the Dream Team include John and Alyssa Mongold, Sandi Armentrout, Sarah Armentrout, Jeremy Dibeneditto, Paul Ours, Erin Hardy, Thann Berg, Deanna Berg, Adreanna Berg, Jason "Loaf" Wilt, Brad Wilt, Emily Stark and Teddy Ludwig.

Watching Isaac slide down his new sliding board with a grin from ear to ear was the greatest feeling ever!

D-Day 1944

In the June 14 issue of the Moorefield Examiner, the following editorial by Katherine McCoy Fisher was published. We reprint it to remind you what the feelings were of Americans as the war continued in Europe and Japan.

D-Day has come. The day which has been held in the hearts of American people for months. The day of THE DATE which will be one of the most tremendous days in history. And the great impression of those of us at home is of the quiet prayerfulness with which it was greeted.

When word reached us of the great concentration of planes, ships and men which was pouring all the strength of the Allied nations on the coast of Normandy, we held our breath and prayed for the safety of loved ones.

General Eisenhower spoke to his men of a “crusade” and deep in hearts was the hope that such a crusade need not be undertaken a second time in the lives of those of us who have already lived through two crusades.

It is very encouraging to read and hear that the invasion or liberation is progressing even better than the commanders had hoped, but Americans must hold on to their enthusiasm.

Be prepared for losses (even losses lighter than expected means losses). Do not expect Fortress Europe to crumble overnight. Settle down to the long hard tasks still ahead of us. Even the defeat of Germany, when it comes, will not bring the end of our war.

Faith and courage and hope are still the heritage of Americans, and there must be no slacking of our All-out War.

Vote June 11

On Tuesday, June 11, Moorefield registered voters will have the opportunity to elect three members of the City Council and a recorder.

Town elections don't generally elicit large numbers of voters. That's sad, because these are the elected officials who have a fairly significant impact on your life in Moorefield. They oversee your parks, maintain your water, trash and sewer, hire your police officers, and keep the street lights on at night.

They pass laws affecting your properties, your houses, your taxes and your wellbeing.

Think about it: we have a mayor, a recorder and five members of council who are responsible for all these things.

Next Tuesday, you have the opportunity to vote for three council members out of a list of six. The recorder, also up for election, is unopposed but you need to vote for her so she knows she's appreciated.

The polling place is located at Inskeep Hall on Winchester Avenue and will be open from 6:30 a.m. until 7:30 p.m.

You will need one form of a valid identifying document. This can be your voter registration card, Medicare or Medicaid card, Social Security card, birth certificate or even a bank card. Photo ID can be provided with a driver's license, passport, military ID or student ID card.

If you don't have any of these, you may be vouched for by someone who has known you for at least 6 months or by a poll worker who has known you.

What we're saying is you have 13 hours to stop by the Town Hall and take five minutes to vote. It's a pretty easy process and you really have no excuse not to show up and be a good citizen.

Please vote on Tuesday, June 11.

MY UNBASED OPINION

By DAVID O. HEISHMAN

A farmer had a mule. Old mule. A bit crippled, lame and decrepit. Mule still worked, but it was nearing end of its useful life. Time to be thinking about a new, younger beast of burden to help maintain his farm.

Farmer advertised. Mule wanted. Listed qualities and abilities he'd pay for. Gave a price range he'd meet.

Another farmer answered the ad. Described the mule, listed its attributes plus a bonus. Prospective seller claimed mule worked perfectly by voice command. Never a need to use lines on it. Get up Gee, Haw and Whoa were all that was needed. No physical reinforcement necessary.

Mule's wonderful extra talent made its asking price outside buying farmer's price range. But, that talent meant no reins hanging about farmer's sweaty neck while he plowed. No need to even bridle mule. No need to remove the bit whenever mule stopped work to eat.

Seller sweetened the deal with a money back guarantee. If mule didn't perform as advertised, seller would take it back, refund all the money plus extra for the buying farmer's trouble.

Buyer Decided to move up in the world a little with such a valuable mule and agreed to the price. Loaded mule, hauled it home, unloaded and led it to a stall. Next morning, wanting to work his fields, farmer led new mule out and harnessed it to a cultivator.

Get up, mule. Mule didn't move. Lazy eyes, floppy ears, looked around at farmer, but never moved. Again, Get Up mule. No reaction. Thinking mule might be used to hard language, Farmer tried Get The Hell Up mule. Didn't even bother to switch its tail.

Farmer headed for the house and his telephone. Rang up selling farmer, explained the problem. Seller said he'd be right over to straighten everything out. He got there and asked buyer to demonstrate the problem. Get up, mule. Mule didn't move.

Ah, yes said the seller. Something I did neglect to tell you. With that, seller picked up a broken board from the barnyard fence, walked up behind mule, smacked it across the ass, said Get Up, mule and the mule moved out smartly. Worked first rows perfectly, answering every command.

New owner stopped at row's end near the barn to voice his approval of how well mule handled.

But he said. I thought you said no physical reinforcement of voice commands was necessary. Oh, he'll follow commands perfectly, but occasionally you'll need to get his attention first."

Think of China's economy, advertised as manufacturer for the world. Its trade practices good for China at Western world's expense. Xi Jinping, China's boss, has trained his economy to answer to his voice commands and operate as he desires.

Leaders of western countries have tried to work with China's economy. Import/export imbalances in China's favor have resulted. No action on part of its leader, when requested, has resulted. Now President Trump is swinging the tariff board. Will it get Xi's attention?

Mexico's leadership stands in the way of controlling immigration from South American Countries.. Lip service galore has had no measurable effect on slowing the flow of border crossers. Perhaps Mr. Trump's new tariffs on Mexican goods will be the board across the Mexican government's ass that slows the flow.

Remember

AP recently ran a story on the highest paid CEOs of each state. We glanced down the list from California's Elon Musk at $2.28 billion to North Dakota's David Goodin at $4.1 million. However, there was no CEO for West Virginia listed along with 4 other states, while Washington, DC was included. We didn't check out which ones were missing, but we find it interesting that there are states with no "high paid" CEOs, or at least not according to the Associated Press. And by the way, we know this isn't true of West Virginia, so what happened?

The Longest Day

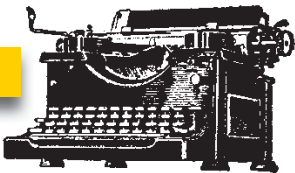

Do you like golf? Do you like watching others play? Do you have $125? If you answered yes to all these questions then you are in luck. The PGA Tour at the Greenbrier is now selling tickets to watch the professional golfers in action. The $125 is for a weekly grounds badge. Or you can pay $40 for a single day ticket. Premium seating in air conditioned facilities is available, but no price was given. We suppose there are golf addicts who would think nothing of paying for watching, but we think it would be a lot cheaper and more comfortable to sit at home and watch on television. And don't forget, if you stay overnight you'll have that cost, plus meals.

The spotted lantern fly has been doing damage in Frederick County. Last report we had put the beastie in Pennsylvania. Frederick's close enough to us for our farmers to have some concern for possible infestations here in Hardy County. Google this invasive pest so you know what you're looking for and if you see one, please let our Extension and ag folks know. This critter has an incredible appetite for fruit trees - not the fruit, but it attacks to the rest of the tree can do lots of damage. Apparently it doesn't fly well, but is good at catching rides on vehicles and such. Check cut wood before moving. You are looking for a large gray insect with black spots and red underwings. If you find egg masses destroy them, but they aren't easy to find. Destroy the insect if you can. And by the way, this invasive bug is native to China. That may explain why it's such a problem.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Dear Editor,

Phoebe, thank you for the editorial in today's paper. I have long felt that abortion was the choice of a woman and that NO ONE else had ANY right to abrogate her decision. Ever since humans got up and started walking on two feet females were able to identify and use the plants The Creator put here on earth to handle unwanted pregnancies. Thank you again for that editorial. I hope some people read it and come to their senses.

Sometimes I wonder where your husband comes up with some of the things he writes. Equal pay for equal work is the way it should be. He would have screamed to high heaven had daughter Major Hannah not gotten the same pay as any other Major.

Third and last, I dug the hell out of Jean Flanagan's story about Kerr's Dog Wash. I always look forward to any story by Jean.

Stay warm, stay safe, stay above the sod

Bob Brookfield

Dear Editor:

Wow. The Examiner certainly took on a hot – and difficult – topic in its editorial endorsing abortion choice. I don't think, however, that you fairly represented the perspective of those of us who consider ourselves pro-life.

Nowhere in your lengthy editorial did you raise the question of when human life begins. Yet, this is a critical consideration in any fair debate about abortion because the aspects of "wantedness," financial support, and governments tell[ing] you what to do with your body are logically secondary to whether the unborn entity (zygote, fetus, unborn baby, call her what you will) is a human being.

Science, though, tells us categorically that a separate human life begins at conception. Thus, when the Supreme Court issued its Roe v. Wade decision in 1973, it was the second time in our country's history that the highest court in our land declared an entire class of human beings as other than persons. Dred Scott, in 1857, was the awful, evil predecessor to Roe v. Wade in this respect.

Surely not being wanted is not justification for killing another human being. If the little female or male human being in gestation has separate DNA, its own fingerprints, heartbeats, brain waves, etc., then abortion is not simply the government telling a woman what to do with HER own body. There are in fact two human bodies at issue. I think the littlest human also deserves some of that due process promised in the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

By all means, let's debate abortion with respect for the other side's point of view, with reason, with consideration, and with mutual respect. But calling the pro-life position a noose around the necks of women or a dictatorship or just . . . words isn't the prelude to a fair discussion and dodges the essential issue.

In medicine, the Hippocratic Oath includes the admonition to "first, do no harm." We can debate government assistance programs, adoption, and contraception, but, first, let's not "terminate" the unborn baby.

USDA Study Shows Significant Greenhouse Gas Benefits of Ethanol

A new study released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) finds greenhouse gas emissions from corn-based ethanol are about 39 percent lower than gasoline. The study also states that when ethanol is refined at natural gas-powered refineries, the greenhouse gas emissions are even lower, around 43 percent below gasoline.

"These new findings provide further evidence that biofuels from America's heartland reduce greenhouse gases even more than we thought, and that our farmers and ethanol plants continue to become more efficient and effective," said Secretary Sonny Perdue. President Trump has made it abundantly clear he is unleashing the full potential of American energy production as we retake our rightful place as the world's leader. Expanding the sale of E15 year-round will provide consumers with more choices when they fill up at the pump, including environmentally friendly fuel with decreased emissions. I appreciate EPA Administrator Andrew Wheeler moving expeditiously to finalize the E-15 rule before the start of summer driving season.

Background

The study, led by Dr. Jan Lewandowski of USDA's Office of the Chief Economist, and published in the journal Biofuels, supports findings of other research that ethanol has a significantly better greenhouse gas profile than previously estimated.

The study, titled "The greenhouse gas benefits of corn ethanol assessing recent evidence, attributes much of these additional benefits to revised estimates of the impacts of land-use change as a result of demand for ethanol. Where previous estimates anticipated farmers bringing additional land into production as a result of increased corn prices, recent analysis finds only modest increases in cropland. Additional improvements at ethanol refineries, combined with on-farm conservation practices that reduce greenhouse gas emissions, such as reduced tillage and cover crops, have further decreased emissions associated with corn ethanol. The study projects that with added improvements in refineries and on farms, a reduction of over 70 percent in lifecycle emissions is possible by 2022.

The study is available for download. More information on the greenhouse gas profile of biofuels is available at <https://www.usda.gov/oce/ocep>.

Moorefield Middle School Students Regional Winners In State Contest

By Jean A. Flanagan
Moorefield Examiner

Moorefield Middle School students Sarah Iman, Emma Parker and Grant Sherman were chosen as regional winners in the West Virginia Attorney General's Kids Kick Opioids contest.

MMS Health teacher Chessie Vetter said she used the AG's contest as a springboard to talk about West Virginia's opioid crisis in her classes.

We talked about it for two days before they worked on their projects, Vetter said. I think we all learned something from the discussions.

Some of the students talked from personal experience of family members and their struggles with addiction.

Judges selected Karter King of Rivesville Elementary/Middle School in Marion County as the statewide winner. Judges also recognized Emma Parker, an eighth-grade student at Moorefield Middle School in Hardy County, as statewide runner-up. Her submission will appear with Karter's on the Attorney General's website.

burg supplies the rolls. The Ruritans come every year and cook the hot dogs, Kuhn said.
And for the past seven years, Vicki Fertig, with the West Virginia University Extension Service Family Nutrition Program fills the back of her pickup truck with ice - generously donated by Pilgrim's Pride - stops by Food Lion and loads up on lots of watermelon.
It's usually a hot day and the kids need to stay hydrated, Fertig said. This gives them a healthy option to soda pop.
Fertig also has a farmer who takes the watermelon rinds, so they don't end up in the trash.
The West Virginia Army National Guard will be on hand with their climbing wall.

The West Virginia Department of Agriculture is scheduled to bring the Animal Farm, which allows children and adults to see what working on a farm is really like.
There will be bouncy-house inflatables and games galore.
In spite of the global helium shortage, there will be balloons, Kuhn said. I bought helium last October.
Students and adults in need of community service hours help set up and clean up.
Anthony (Rao) and his crew always have the park clean and ready for us, Kuhn said.
We are so very grateful to the community because they see the value of this event. When it started there were maybe 100 - 200 people who attended. This year we're expecting about 700. It has grown every year.

It not only gives families a chance to connect, but it gives agencies a chance to work with and get to know people in other agencies.
Kuhn said she has seen firsthand the benefit Celebrate the Family has on families.
A few years ago, an older woman, I'm assuming a grandmother, had four or five children with her. They were running and playing and having a good time. She told me this was the only place she can take them all because it doesn't cost anything. It just made my heart sing.

Corridor H a top priority, said Robbie Morris, Chairman of the Corridor H Authority. Governor Justice promised that a section of Corridor H would be included in the Roads to Prosperity program and today he has delivered on that promise. We congratulate Kokosing on being awarded the contract and look forward to working with everyone to see the project through to completion.

This announcement is in addition to work currently underway in Lewis County on the I-79/Corridor H southbound interchange at Exit 99 and a 7.5 mile section currently under construction in Randolph and Tucker Counties.

million today to get us one step closer. When completed, Corridor H will be used by more businesses, investors, travelers and West Virginians alike and will only impact our state for the better. Completing Corridor H is important to the economic growth and prosperity of our state, Senator Manchin said.
"From my first day in the Senate, I have advocated for Corridor H and similar projects that will strengthen our transportation infrastructure, and I was thrilled to work with the administration and Secretary Chao to deliver this much-needed investment," Senator Capito said. Projects like Corridor H are not only beneficial for travelers and those living in nearby communities, but they have the potential to substantially improve our state's commerce and economic potential by connecting West Virginia to other transportation hubs across the nation. As West Virginia continues to reorient and diversify our economy and create new opportunity, the backbone of these efforts is a continued investment in infrastructure projects, and I will continue working to help deliver the resources to build on these efforts and complete critical projects.

Once Upon a Horse

Once upon a horse,
Five little girls and a boy;
Looking a bit unsure,
Not exactly faces of joy.

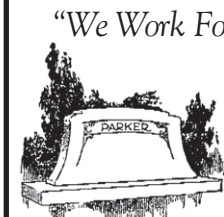

Once upon a horse,
The bravest front and rear;
those left in the middle,
Thinking, "What am I doing here."

Once upon a horse,
At Grandma's house one day;
Mammas and Daddies near,
Proudly watching their children play.

Once upon a horse,
A moment captured in time;
Bringing us memories,
Of a life carefree and sublime.

Making a Statement Moorefield Yellow Jackets Win Back-to-Back West Virginia Baseball Championships

Yellow Jackets celebrate back-to-back state titles with a dogpile after defeating Charleston Catholic 4-2 at Appalachian Power Park.

Moorefield catcher Lane Ours lifts his glove up with the ball to show the umpire for a confirmation of an out after making a textbook stop to prevent Charleston Catholic's Connor Blakely from scoring on a throw from Jayden Moore in the Class A state championship.

By Carl Holcomb
Moorefield Examiner

Moorefield coach and pastor Wade Armentrout led his congregation of Yellow Jackets players to back-to-back state baseball titles in the cathedral of Appalachian Power Park defeating Charleston Catholic 4-2 in the Class A state championship on Sunday morning.

"I know it feels great. It's great to repeat and it's never been done before in baseball at our school. These guys are fantastic young men, great to coach and I'm just blessed to be a part of that. They just do things unselfishly and it's been that way all season long," Moorefield coach Wade Armentrout stated.

"We knew we just needed to stay close and that we were going to get some quality atbats. We've been swinging the ball well and knew we had the pitching staff. When we got to that point, we made the changes. We wanted to change the pace knowing they had some great left-handed batters. We just put our guys in a position to win the ballgame."

Special permission was given for the Class A state championship game to begin in the morning and both teams had separate groups of prayer.

Coach Armentrout had an inspirational message for his team on the bus prior to the state championship game talking about cross country trails and how one must make the right decision choosing the path to follow, while giving the semifinal winning pitcher Isaac Van Meter a blessing to read Scripture for this devotional time and the verses chosen were Proverbs 3:5,6.

The Yellow Jackets trusted in the process of the game, choosing to overcome a few setbacks and creating amazing plays en route to securing the state title again.

This was the fourth state championship for the Yellow Jackets (27-11) in program history with all coming under coach Armentrout and the first Moorefield baseball team to repeat as the state champions in addition to setting a school record of 27 wins for a single season.

"We just made history. We're the first team in Moorefield High School history to go back-to-back and it feels great. I didn't start the game out the best, but I am glad my fellow senior Blake Watts could come in and finish it for me. It was a team effort and couldn't do it without any other players. ROW [Results or Words] has a really deep meaning and it was the basis for our entire season," Moorefield senior Derek Hoyt remarked.

Each step to reach this point has been a result of teamwork, encouraging one another to row together in the boat to the finish line achieving the ultimate goal.

Starting the season, Moorefield focused on a hashtag called #ROW standing for Results or Words, then as an inspiration to see the team reach the finish line Coach Armentrout made a paper boat with wooden oars to be a visual reminder during the championship game.

As the top seed in the state tournament, the Yellow Jackets were the home team in Charleston and brought a plethora of fans for support outnumbering the true hometown Irish in the stands to inspire Moorefield.

Moorefield senior pitcher Derek Hoyt was given the nod to start the game and induced a groundout from Charleston Catholic leadoff batter Marshall Pile with the out fielded by second baseman Brent Moran over to Blake Watts.

Hoyt notched a strikeout on Ross Parker as the Yellow Jackets crowd was buzzing with excitement, but that was tempered momentarily as the Irish countered with three consecutive singles.

Charleston Catholic's Thomas Blaydes hit into left field, J.W. Armstrong singled just over the leap of Moran and Will Strickland gave the Irish a 1-0 edge on an RBI single into center field before a fielder's choice collected by Moorefield shortstop Isaac Van Meter retired the side.

Moorefield leadoff batter Brent Moran connected for a single off Charleston Catholic pitcher Thomas Blaydes with a shot eluding the dive of Irish right fielder Izak Young.

Blaydes countered with a strikeout to Van Meter, then Moran stole second base and Moorefield's Hayden Baldwin flew out to Ross in center field.

Moorefield senior Blake Watts smacked a game-tying RBI single up the middle which gave him seven RBIs for the state tournament to this point and Moran stepped across home plate pausing to flex while shouting 'let's go'.

The Irish ended the inning collecting a groundout off the bat of Matthew Jenkins.

Moorefield pitching coach Scott Stutler took Hoyt to the side for a discussion helping him to remain calm and focused.

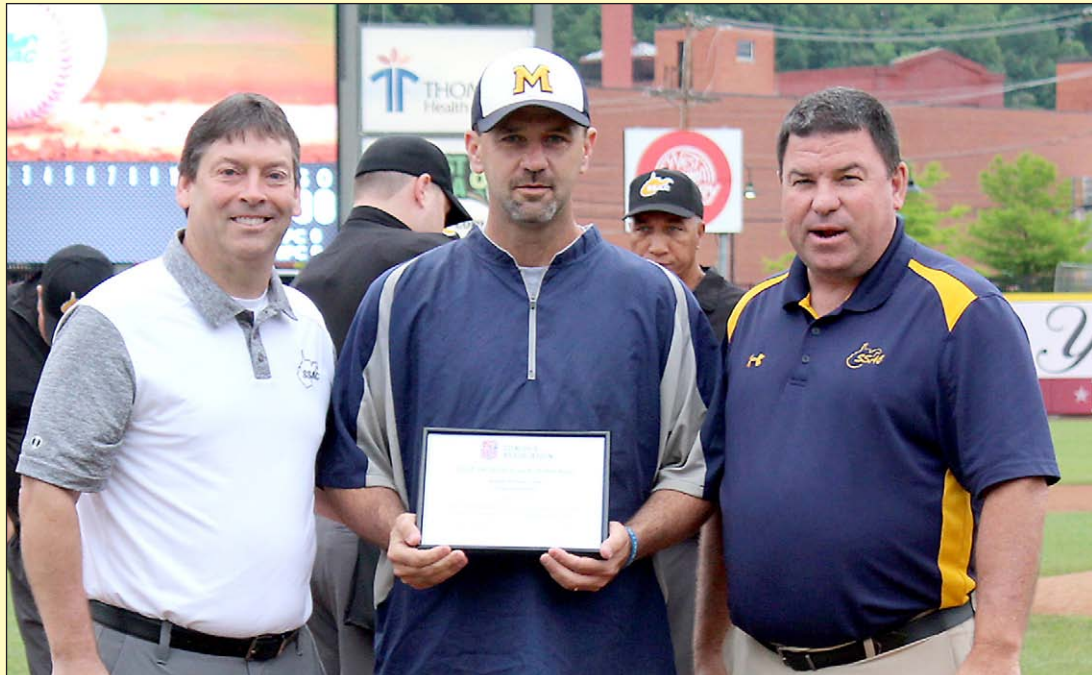

In the top of the second inning, the Irish regained the lead before Moorefield answered again to knot it up.

Charleston Catholic's Connor Blakely grounded out, then Hoyt struck out Thomas Rennie.

A walk was issued to Marc Spiegel and the Irish created a 2-1 lead as Pile notched an RBI single into center field before Hoyt recorded another strikeout to prevent an additional score.

Armentrout Named State Baseball Coach of the Year

Moorefield skipper Wade Armentrout was presented the West Virginia Baseball Coach of the Year award by WVSSAC Assistant Executive Director Greg Reed and WVSSAC Executive Director Bernie Dolan at the Class A State Baseball Tournament at Appalachian Power Park in Charleston.

By Carl Holcomb
Moorefield Examiner

Moorefield skipper Wade Armentrout was recognized as the National Federation of State High School Associations West Virginia Baseball Coach of the Year with a ceremony prior to the Class A State Baseball Tournament semifinals at Appalachian Power Park in Charleston last Saturday.

"Hopefully it brings a lot of pride to our school and our community. I don't do anything for individual honors, but it just goes back to the hard work and dedication of the players, parents and people who have supported our program and the administrators Mr. McGregor and Mr. Hill," Moorefield coach Wade Armentrout commented.

"I've had a lot of mentors in this business of coaching and I feel like there are always things that I can do to get better and improve so I can guide and direct these young people in the right direction. The most rewarding thing for me is to watch a team develop into a team, that there is a role for everybody and they can all contribute in some way and when they do that the program is successful. You can watch your players celebrate, because they have developed and done it the right way. What they do on and off the field is important. Sports is just an avenue to teach character traits."

West Virginia Secondary School Activities Commission Executive Director Bernie Dolan and Assistant Executive Director Greg Reed presented Coach Armentrout with the plaque prior to the state semifinal game between Moorefield and St. Joseph Central Catholic.

Coach Armentrout was notified of this honor during the Moorefield High School Sports Awards ceremony the previous week as principal Patrick McGregor shared a letter from NFHS Executive Director Dr. Karissa L. Niehoff.

An excerpt from the letter provided by McGregor reads "Wade was specifically recognized by your state association, the West Virginia Secondary Schools Activities Commission, as the most deserving recipient for this honor. We rely on our member state associations to help us recognize those who are leading their sport, shaping their athletes and contributing in a positive way to their community."

Armentrout has a career coaching record of 379-187 in 20 seasons at the helm of the Moorefield Baseball team with four state championships in seven state tournament appearances.

There have been two other Potomac Valley Conference Baseball coaches to receive this state coach of the year award as former East Hardy skipper Raymond Snapp was recognized in 2012 and Pendleton County coach Sam Yokum

Yellow Jackets Make No Delay in Semifinal Win

By Carl Holcomb
Moorefield Examiner

The Yellow Jackets were sipping on a cup of St. Joe's early on Saturday morning not needing an alarm clock as Brent Moran hyped up the alertness in the warm-up session which led to six electrifying RBIs from Blake Watts and Isaac Van Meter zapped the Irish with seven strikeouts for a 10-nil five-inning shutout victory in the Class A state baseball semifinal at Appalachian Power Park in Charleston to advance to the championship game.

No alarm clock was needed as Moorefield was already awake earlier than expected, willing and able to start the day with the best two hours played on the field plus Moran was shouting to each teammate to wake up even if one of them had an energy drink that gave the Yellow Jackets faster wings to fly over St. Joseph Central Catholic during the 8:30 a.m. contest.

"We wanted this game to be our best two hours of the day. You never know what you are going to get playing in an early morning game. We came in ready and focused as a team. We got here working together, so we planned to come out during the introductions as a team. Isaac had control of his pitches and kept throwing strikes for us as he has done all season. Blake had been struggling, but has really been coming alive in the playoffs. He came through big time for us today and he deserved it," Moorefield coach Wade Armentrout commented.

Moorefield was originally scheduled to play at 10:00 a.m. on Friday, but Mother Nature forced the games to be postponed.

An entire day of waiting due to torrential downpour may have lulled some teams to sleep, but the Yellow Jackets kept working analyzing aspects of the game and finding an indoor facility to have batting practice.

There was a special awards ceremony prior to the state semifinal game as Moorefield skipper Wade Armentrout was presented a plaque for being selected as the National Federation of High Schools Associations West Virginia Baseball Coach of the Year and James Altobello was given a plaque as the West Virginia Secondary Schools Association Commission Umpire of the Year.

James Altobello is the brother of Moorefield Football coach Matt Altobello.

In a sign of unity signifying that the Yellow Jackets reached this state semifinal working together, the entire team walked out to the first base line during individual introductions before the national anthem was played.

St. Joseph Central's leadoff batter Noah Beter hit a line drive which was caught by Moorefield third baseman Hayden Baldwin and this play was deemed a game-changer by Irish coach Dave Jenkins.

"If the third baseman doesn't catch that ball, then it would have been an entirely different game and Lenny's hit to the wall would have put us up by one run. We could have had the momentum," St. Joseph Central Catholic coach Dave Jenkins noted.

"You can't believe how improbable this run was to get here with 11 kids. The flu bug could've gotten us and knocked us out. It's an amazing feat what they did and today it obviously didn't go our way. That's part of baseball. We didn't get the breaks early and that happens. Lenny is an incredible hitter and pitcher and could do either one at the next level. When he is on, he is on. If it was 80 degrees outside, it would be different. They used his speed to find a hole and they did. All year we were like Moorefield playing up, so I felt we were battle tested. In baseball, one little thing can start a roll and they put it to us."

The cooler temperature was noted as a factor in the pitching performance, but Moorefield's Isaac Van Meter didn't seem too troubled in controlling his two-seamer.

Van Meter struck out Irish batter Cory Sweeney, then Lenny Washington launched a deep shot near the left field wall where Moorefield's Derek Hoyt lost track of the fly ball and fell down resulting in a double on the play.

Van Meter shrugged off that hit and struck out St. Joseph's Hunter Eplin.

"Once that first out is made in a game, I think that's what takes care of the game and how it is played," Moorefield third baseman Hayden Baldwin said.

Moorefield skipper Wade Armentrout took a moment to instruct his team to keep their eyes on him as they were planning to score runs early and Watts made that happen in the bottom of the first inning.

The Yellow Jackets stepped to the plate creating seven runs in the first two innings against highly touted St. Joseph Central Catholic ace Lenny Washington.

In the opening frame, Moorefield leadoff batter Brent Moran received a full-count walk and Van Meter followed with a single into the right center gap with Caden Kimble coming in as the base runner.

Hayden Baldwin drew a full-count walk to load the bases for the Yellow Jackets and Watts crushed a three-run producing double into left field for a 3-nil advantage.

Washington responded with strikeouts to Moorefield's Matthew Jenkins and Lane Ours before walking Grant Keller and closing the inning with a strikeout on Jayden Moore.

Conner Joseph was issued a walk by Van Meter to begin the second inning for the Irish, then Bronson Barker hit into a double play executed by Moran to Thomas Williams over to Watts at first base and Max Adkins grounded out.

The Yellow Jackets unleashed four runs in the bottom of the second inning to maintain the tempo of the game for a 7-nil lead.

Williams was hit by a pitch and Moran delivered a bunt single avoiding the tag attempt of Washington on the first base line.

Washington just barely got to first base in time on Van Meter's sacrifice bunt.

Baldwin knocked a bloop into right field for an RBI single and Watts followed with an RBI single up the middle to take a 5-0 advantage.

After a walk by Washington to Moorefield's Matthew Jenkins, a passed ball created an opportunity for Moorefield to add a run.

Lane Ours continued the atbat with an RBI sacrifice fly putting the Yellow Jackets up 7-0 prior to a strikeout on Keller.

Van Meter was poised on the mound having the experience from last year's state championship victory under his belt helping remain confident with a strikeout on St.

Joseph Central Catholic's Caleb Smith and jamming Luke Stollings into a pop-up caught by Watts in the top of the third inning.

Beter was issued a free pass on a full-count and stranded on a strikeout by Van Meter to Sweeney.

After a strikeout to Moorefield's Jayden Moore from St. Joseph relief pitcher Cory Sweeney, Williams singled on a bloop into center field which eluded a dive by Washington.

Moran popped out for the second out, then the Yellow Jackets started a rally.

Van Meter singled to the third base side, then Baldwin delivered an RBI single fly ball into the left center gap with fielders converging without making a catch.

Watts gained his sixth RBI of the game on a two-run producing double to put Moorefield ahead 10-nil prior to a flyout by Jenkins.

Moorefield needed six more outs without allowing another score for a mercy-rule ending.

Washington grounded out to Baldwin to begin the fourth inning before Hunter Eplin singled into

Van Meter sandwiched strikeouts to Joseph and Adkins around a walk to Barker to retire the Irish order.

Moorefield's Grant Keller reached base on an error after a flyout by Lane Ours and was left on board on a pop-out by Mason Ours and Thomas Williams short grounder was fielded and a diving tag applied by Sweeney.

Van Meter finished out the game in the fifth inning starting with a strikeout to Smith, then Stollings flew out to Hoyt in left field.

Beter singled past the dive of Baldwin and the Yellow Jackets sealed the 10-0 semifinal win with a catch by Moore in right field off the bat of Sweeney.

"I love this group of guys and I wouldn't want to be on any other team. I just went out there and threw a lot of strikes and my defense backed me up," Moorefield pitcher Isaac Van Meter remarked.

Moorefield carried the confidence and momentum into the state championship resulting in a repeat title.

Armentrout

was given the award in 2014.

Coach Armentrout always wants to improve on a daily basis with his team and strives to encourage his players every step of the way.

Giving back to the community is vital part of the Yellow Jackets program and one such way was bringing flowers to a rehabilitation center to brighten the days of those at the complex.

Coach Armentrout shared with the community recently how his players are very respectful and show good manners wherever they travel for games and that type of character has left an impact.

He looks for his players to be humble and stay hungry for wins during a season, but to also learn from mistakes and move forward.

As the Moorefield Elementary School principal, Wade Armentrout has a program for student-athletes to read books to the younger students and that has been great for them as role models.

Armentrout has a deeper connection to the community as the pastor of the Moorefield Assembly of God Church and a number of his baseball players and their families attend the services.

Coach Armentrout has built a strong baseball program with ten 20-plus win seasons and more importantly helping his players grow into men of integrity and good character.

Moorefield principal Patrick McGregor is very proud of Coach Armentrout receiving this state coach of the year honor.

"When I first moved to this school, we coached together and he was my assistant. I've known him for a long time and know all the hard work and dedication he puts into everything he does. When I got this letter that he was the state baseball coach of the year, he deserves it. If you go watch his teams perform, they compete at a high level. If they make mistakes, he corrects the mistakes. He is an old school coach in the year 2019 and bringing home state championships is nice. To be selected by his peers is great," Moorefield principal Patrick McGregor remarked.

THE OLD MASTER

By JAY FISHER

Ouch.

Mountaineer fans are no stranger to heartbreak. It's something that comes with supporting any team, but with WVU fans, it seems to be harder than most.

There is no shortage of difficult games in WVU's history. I have compared being a WVU fan to being Sisyphus, who would roll a boulder up a mountain, only to see it roll back down just as he reached the peak.

WVU baseball just added to the lore. It was a situation that kids dream up in the back yard. Two outs, full count, bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth, and your team is down by three. One pitch, one swing, and you hit the game winning grand slam. That is what just happened, but WVU wasn't the kid living out the fantasy.

That was how the 2019 baseball season came to an end against Texas A&M. And how they got to that point was also classic painful WVU.

The Mountaineers earned the overall 15 seed in the NCAA tour-

Coach Armentrout won the coach of the year award and his team repeated as the state baseball champions this year as they put in the work he has instilled in them to achieve greatness.

That meant WVU would host a regional for the first time since 1955. A historic season was being rewarded with something that hadn't happened in decades. The other teams were Texas A&M, Duke, and Fordham. Things started out great, with Duke upsetting A&M (who was considered by many to actually be the favorite in the regional), and WVU got past Fordham. That meant WVU would face Duke, who had used their best pitcher against the Aggies, while WVU had saved their first round draft pick to be, Alek Manoah. But Manoah did not have his best stuff, and a freshman pitcher baffled the WVU hitters, and they fell 4-0. That set up an elimination game with the Aggies.

For a while, it looked great. WVU dominated early, and ran up a 9-1 lead. But there was a hiccup. A weather delay in the fourth inning meant that WVU pulled starter Ryan Bergert earlier than they wanted to. Zach Ottinger did a fine job in relief, until the seventh inning, when walks, errors and a grand slam cut the lead to 9-7. Closer Sam Kessler was brought in earlier than ideal, but he ended the inning. An insurance run gave WVU a 10-7 lead heading to the bottom of the ninth, when a double, and two walks loaded the bases. And set up the nightmare.

A few things: first, this was still a great season, and while the ending will always leave a bitter taste, it shouldn't take away too much for the entirety of the season. Second, as tough as it is for the fans, it is tougher for the team.

Finally, congratulations to Moorefield's baseball team, who won its second straight state title.

Moorefield Yellow Jackets Win

Moorefield's Lane Ours stepped to the plate and delivered a single into center field and Caden Kimble came in as a base runner.

Kimble stole second base, then Grant Keller stuck out and Jayden Moore had a deep shot near the left field fence which was snagged on a leap by Young.

Thomas Williams ripped an RBI single with a full-count to lift the Yellow Jackets into a tie once again and Moran flew out in right field.

Blaydes singled for the Irish in the third inning, but was left stranded on a flyouts to Moore and Jenkins plus a line drive snatched by Moran.

Van Meter got the momentum going with a single into left field, but was caught stealing before Baldwin grounded out.

Watts singled into center field and fellow senior Benjamin Pyles came in as a base runner, but the Yellow Jackets remained tied with Charleston Catholic on a Blaydes strikeout to Jenkins.

The fourth inning is where things got interesting and the Yellow Jackets buzzed ahead.

Moorefield brought in Blake Watts to the pitcher's mound and hurled two straight strikeouts to Blakely and Rennie and jammed Spiegel into a pop-up to Moran as the Irish went down in order.

Lane Ours hit a rocket to left field for the Yellow Jackets, but it was tracked down on a leaping catch by Young at the wall.

Keller swung at a third strike which eluded Charleston Catholic catcher Will Strickland and made the dash to first base with the throw by Strickland sailing high and wide with Evan Sayre unable to dive back for a tag in time.

Moore crushed a double into left field and time was called as the fans were cheering loudly.

Williams came up next squeezing an RBI single into center field past the diving attempt of Armstrong as the Yellow Jackets took a 3-2 lead.

After a pop-out by Moran, Van Meter reached base on an error as the throw from third base went awry and plated Moore in the process to extend the edge to 4-2 before Baldwin flew out.

Watts struck out Pile to begin the top of the fifth inning, then the Irish countered with a single by Ross into center field.

Ross advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Blaydes collected by Mason Ours at first base and left stranded as Armstrong struck out.

The Yellow Jackets went down in order as Watts flew out, then Jenkins and Lane Ours grounded out.

Moorefield needed just six more outs to claim the state championship and the defense was ready to make the highlights.

Strickland popped out for Charleston Catholic in shallow left field with Van Meter locating the ball, then Sayre popped out to Moran.

Blake singled into center field and advanced on a passed ball.

The Irish had luck eradicated as Young's blooper landed beyond the dive of Moran, but right fielder Moore was there to collect the ball firing it to catcher Lane Ours making a textbook denial for the out at home plate for the Yellow Jackets as the fans erupted along with his teammates as he showed the ball to the umpire confirming the out and jumped up shouting triumphantly.

Moorefield didn't get on the base path in the bottom of the sixth inning as Keller struck out, then Moore popped out to the catcher and Williams flew out in center field.

"It was a seven inning dog fight and a good baseball game. Hats off to Moorefield and we hope to match up with them about 365 days from now. We'll start getting to work on it," Charleston Catholic coach Bill Mehle remarked.

"It came down to who blinked first and I guess we blinked in the fourth inning and they did not throughout seven innings. That's a credit to them."

Watts remained on the mound to close the game out for the Yellow Jackets.

"When I came in, I was ready. I felt good in the bullpen and had control of my pitches. It was up in the air [coming in]. We stayed with Hoyt as long as we could, then coach decided to make the switch. Normally I am a starter and it's hard coming out of the bullpen, but I was ready. It is really exciting [state championship] and is a really big deal making history for our program," Moorefield senior Blake Watts stated.

Spiegel hit a line drive to Van Meter and Pile flew out to Jenkins in center field as the Irish were running out of luck with just one out left in the title game.

Charleston Catholic stayed alive momentarily as Ross singled into left field, but the final out securing the state championship for Moorefield went off the bat of Blaydes back into left field sailing into the glove of Williams finishing the game.

Williams launched the ball into the air as his teammates started a dogpile bringing Watts down in celebration with Williams leaping to the top of the group moments later.

"It's indescribable. You dream about moments like that your whole life. Last night I was dreaming about making plays and getting hits. We're the first team in Moorefield High School history to twopeat. When expectations are all year that you're winning it, it is hard to live up to those expectations. This team rallied together and we rode 'Results or Words' and got that Ship. It just shows how good our team has been from Little League all the way up. We know our potential. We've worked hard and our coaches worked with us to help us come out here and prove it and we did," Moorefield left fielder Thomas Williams commented.

Moorefield knocked out the Irish 4-2 to earn back-to-back state championships and each member of the team received plaques.

Coach Mehle fell one victory shy of 500 career wins this season and the Irish will have to wait until next season to meet that milestone.

The Class A All-Tournament team members were Moorefield's Van Meter, Watts, Williams and Baldwin; Charleston Catholic's Pile, Strickland, Sayre and Blaydes, Wheeling Central Catholic's Avery Lee and St. Joseph Catholic's Lenny Washington.

"I thought we could do it and I liked that we won two in a row. I relied on my team and what they could do behind us and I believed in them. I was appreciative of the all-tournament team selection. I did everything I could fielding ground balls and just did my part on the team to help us win," Moorefield third baseman Hayden Baldwin noted.

Moorefield collected the state championship trophy and took thousands of pictures with it before heading home to Hardy County, where Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company 46 escorted the team with local law enforcement for a parade through town and finished with a ceremony at the high school filled with members of the community greeting the champions.

"This is the best feeling in the world. [All-Tournament] It's a great feeling, but the main goal is to just get on top," Moorefield sophomore Isaac Van Meter concluded.

Class A state baseball champion Yellow Jackets were given a special ride by Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company 46 through town for a celebration parade after returning from Charleston on Sunday night.

Moorefield pitcher Blake Watts throws a strike against the Irish during the Class A state championship game at Appalachian Power Park in Charleston last Sunday.

Moorefield principal Patrick McGregor congratulates the Yellow Jackets Baseball team on winning back-to-back Class A state championships during a welcome home ceremony with community support.
